A HUMANITARIAN ASSOCIATION AT THE SERVICE OF NGOs

Résilience
Enfants d'Asie is a French non-profit association whose mission is to provide to NGOs operating in South-East Asia additional skills in psychological support for children having suffered severe trauma.

STATEMENT

A psychological support for traumatized children still too rare.

NGOs and Associations are mobilized to help children in distress. First, they offer them a safe shelter and food. Then, they send them to school to provide a professional training.

But for years, children's psychological suffering has not been cared for. Consensus favored silence about the abuse suffered and children were encouraged to forget the past. Thus very few places of shelter have the ability to provide these children with the psychological support they need in these post-traumatic situations.

However, we must remember that wounds remain all the more painful without proper care.

OBJECTIVE

Bring awareness on the importance of psychological support for traumatized children.

Taking into account their own experience, their culture and needs, Résilience Enfants d'Asie offers local humanitarian associations dedicated to child protection, additional skills focusing on four essential principles:

- MAKE social workers AWARE of the concept of resilience
- DEVELOP a suitable psychological support with the teams
- EVALUATE necessary conditions to resilience
- DEFINE & IMPLEMENT new resources to help children's resilience

OPERATION

Our volunteers in Paris develop projects and coordinate missions in partnership with NGOs in South-East Asia.

Most of our volunteers (clinical psychologists, doctors, psycho-therapists, psychiatrists and consultants) are familiar with Asian culture. Their mission is to train the people in charge of suffering children to post-traumatic support, by giving them additional skills on various techniques able to increase resilience (listening, art therapy, speech and other means of expression).

Our missions are all subject to evaluation and quality control once completed.
